THINKING OUTSIDE THE CAT BOX: HOW TO SAVE MORE FELINE LIVES

Emily Garman

We know that more cats are killed in shelters in the United States than any other animals. How can we think outside the traditional box to save more cats' lives? During this interactive presentation we'll break down the data about where people get their cats and what strategies are most effective in getting more cats adopted. We'll discuss how you can become a resource in your community for people with cats and people who want to help cats, how you can help cats stay in their homes, common barriers to adoption and creative cat adoption campaigns. We'll have plenty of time for discussion and brainstorming so you'll leave with ideas you can put into practice right away to save more cats' lives.

OR

TRAINING SHELTER DOGS

Jenn Barg

The field of animal welfare has progressed significantly, to the point that the mental health of the dogs in our care is viewed as being equally as important as disease prevention and cleanliness. This workshop covers how to create low-stress environments for shelter dogs, as well as how to help them stay mentally stimulated and learn impulse control while in our facilities. Information on how to start and what is included in a "behavior program" will be presented. Demonstrations with local shelter dogs as well as PowerPoint/Video will be used.
